SUPERIOR COURT OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS
DIVISION OF ST. CROIX

IN RE COMPLEX LITIGATION CASES PENDING IN THE DISTRICT OF ST. CROIX,

SX-15-MC-003

ORDER

COMES NOW the Court, as Administrative Judge for the District of St. Croix, and issues this Order to schedule a global status conference to begin discussions with counsels regarding how best to move through the court system the complex litigation cases pending in the Superior Court of the Virgin Islands, District of St. Croix. For purposes of this Order, the phrase “complex litigation cases” refers to any lawsuit that alleges toxic tort claims arising from, related to, or concerning the former oil refinery or aluminum refinery on St. Croix and that also involves multiple parties, whether multiple plaintiffs who filed suit jointly, individual plaintiffs whose cases have been or can be consolidated, or multiple defendants and/or third-party actions. A preliminary review of the Superior Court’s docket reveals that approximately seven hundred complex litigation cases that may be pending in this District. A spreadsheet identifying these potentially complex litigation cases is attached to this Order as an exhibit.

The attached list is not meant to be conclusive, but is meant to be exhaustive, meaning that all potentially complex cases, as defined above, have been included. Some cases or series of cases on the list are pending and being actively litigated while others have lain dormant for years. Also included on the list are cases or series of cases that they may have been settled or resolved. The reason for including all possible cases on the attached list is so that court staff can determine whether a case can be closed because all claims—including any counterclaims brought by a defendant against another defendant, see Super. Ct. R. 34, or third-party complaints—have been resolved against all parties or whether the case is still open because the claims of one or more parties must be resolved. A further reason for including all possible complex litigation cases is to apprise counsels of the sheer volume of complex litigation cases pending in this District.

To that end, and in advance of the status conference, counsels are asked to review the attached list and consult their own files in reference to the cases not color-coded. If a case is not color-coded it means, according to the court's records, that the case is not consolidated with any other case. In some instances this may have been what the parties intended. For example, Der Weer v. Hess Oil Virgin Islands Corporation, SX-2005-CV-274, was never suggested for consolidation with any other set of cases. In other instances the court or the parties may have inadvertently overlooked a case. For example, Samuel Cotto v. Hess Oil Virgin Island Corporation, SX-2006-CV-087, was filed on the same day as approximately forty other cases that the court later consolidated under a master docket, In re Refinery Dust Claims, SX-2006-CV-078. But because Cotto was never identified for consolidation with the Refinery Dust Claims cases, or with any other case, it remains pending as an individual case in the court's records. This may or may not be what the parties intended. Again, the concern here is with identifying potentially "orphaned" cases and determining how best to proceed.

Additionally, counsels are also asked to be prepared to discuss at the status conference whether the current consolidation of various complex litigation cases, or proposed consolidation, could benefit from a different organization. For example, given the length of time many of these cases have been pending, it might be appropriate to determine if there are any cases in which the plaintiffs have become ill while waiting for their case to be resolved. Such cases might benefit from consolidation. Additionally, given the intervening change in the law in the Virgin Islands, see generally Gov't of the V.I. v. Connor, 60 V.I. 597 (2014), consolidation could be helpful to address the same or similar questions of law common in many of the complex litigation cases, see Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(a), or even to "materially advance the ultimate termination of litigation" by certifying such controlling questions to the Supreme Court of the Virgin Islands. 4 V.I.C. § 33(c).

Finally, counsels should come prepared to discuss generally whether a specific complex litigation case, or series of cases, should proceed before any other case or series of cases. In other words, because many of the pending complex litigation cases involve the same attorneys, and because these attorneys simply cannot be expected to proceed simultaneously before the three active judges currently assigned to these cases, counsels are asked to consider whether the Superior Court should take a systematic approach in addressing these cases and if so what approach would be fair to all concerned. Anticipating that counsels, or their clients, might not be willing to agree on whether any particular case or cases should be addressed first, counsels should also be prepared to discuss what options are available in the Superior Court for moving these cases through the court system more expeditiously than to date. See. e.g., 4 V.I.C. §§ 74a, 123(b)(1)-(2), 123(c); Super. Ct. R. 40; Fed. R. Civ. P. 53.

Counsels are asked to refrain from filing—whether in this miscellaneous matter or in one of the complex litigation cases—any response or other documentation regarding the issues raised above, including but not limited to: copies of prior orders, including case management orders or consolidation orders; stipulated dismissals; lists of pending motions, dismissed parties, and the like. If needed, court staff will request such documentation from the attorneys. The concern is that the Superior Court’s records, which is the official record, see 4 V.I.C. § 241, concur with the attorneys’ understanding as to the status of these cases. Lastly, given the size of the attached exhibit, and mindful of the overall amount of paper that has already been generated in these cases, the Clerk’s Office will serve this Order and the accompanying exhibit electronically. Hard copies will not follow. Accordingly, for the reasons state above, it is hereby ORDERED that a Status Conference shall be held on Thursday, February 26, 2015 at 9:00 a.m. in Courtroom 206 to address the concerns raised above. It is further

ORDERED that the Clerk’s Office shall send a certified copy of this Order, along with the attached exhibit, by electronic mail to the following attorneys who are requested to appear IN PERSON, or through someone authorized to speak on their behalf, at the status conference scheduled
